

MODERN JAPAN HISTORY ASSOCIATION proudly announces a special event

12 QUESTIONS WITH DAVID HOWELL

Our 12 Questions series continues with an interview with Professor David Howell about his role as editor of the forthcoming New Cambridge History of Japan Volume II: Early Modern Japan in Asia and the World, c. 1580–1877.

Please join us via Zoom, on Tuesday February 6th 2024 at 4pm Pacific/7pm Eastern/ 8am Japan Standard Time. Registration is required at <https://mjha.org/12-Questions>

David Howell is the Robert K. and Dale J. Weary Professor of Japanese History at Harvard University.

Kären Wigen is the Frances & Charles Field Professor in History at Stanford University.

It has been over thirty years since the first volume set of The Cambridge History of Japan came out. The forthcoming release of volume 2 of the new volume set gives us the opportunity to reflect on how the history of early modern Japan has been traditionally conceptualized and consider how and why current trends in history writing may be shifting these views. Professor Kären Wigen will interview David Howell about a wide range of questions about the past, present, and future writing of the histories of early modern Japan. There will be significant time for audience questions and discussion. This event is not to be missed!
